

URGENT INTERACTIONS

“The patient doesn’t read the textbook. Listen to their story and put the pieces together, even if it isn’t a ‘classic’ textbook presentation.”

— Lindsey E. Fish, MD, FCUCM
JUCM Editor in Chief

“Your chart is a story that should have a well-told beginning, middle, and end. The diagnosis should be supported by the data you have gathered during the encounter.”

— Michael Weinstock, MD
JUCM Senior Clinical Editor

“Be aware of mimics. Pediatric heart failure is a great mimic, and 49% will go undiagnosed on their first presentation. Symptoms often mimic a simple upper respiratory infection, and while most cases will be a straightforward infection, it is important we remain diligent in looking for that needle in a haystack.”

— Brittany Wippel, MD
JUCM Pediatrics Editor

ICYMI

Last month, many industry leaders shared their thoughts on the last 20 years of urgent care’s evolution to help us celebrate JUCM’s 20th anniversary. If you missed it, you can access the full issue from the archives.

Call for Manuscripts

JUCM accepts submissions on most topics related to urgent care medicine. Following are a few examples of the types of topics that would be of interest to the JUCM audience. If you have a question, please contact us at editor@jucm.com. To submit an article for consideration, access our author guidelines at <https://www.jucm.com/author-instructions>.

- How to increase clinically appropriate, timely use of ECGs
- Treatment approaches to anterior and posterior nose bleeds
- Distinguishing morbilliform and other measles-like skin rashes
- Who has clinical oversight when AI takes the lead?

Have a comment? Interested in sharing your perspective on a topic that appeared in JUCM? Not all letters will be published. Letters may be edited for length and clarity.
Send your letters to: editor@jucm.com